DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 22-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In regards to claim 22, line 10, the claim limitation "...is varied..." is stated in a passive voice and needs to be in an active voice so as to positively recite said step. It is suggested to use the language "...varying..." to positively recite the limitation step.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 15, 17-22, 24-28, 30 & 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by May (US 2003/0176901).

May discloses an electrotherapy apparatus (e.g., element 1) and method for applying electrical stimulation to a muscle or group of muscles [e.g., 0001], wherein said electrical stimulation comprises electrical pulses, said electrical stimulation having parameters comprising at least some of an amplitude, a pulse repetition frequency, etc., and a microprocessor (e.g., element 6) adapted to vary at least one of said amplitude, frequency, etc. in accordance with a predetermined pattern stored in the associated microprocessor (e.g., via disclosed memory, element 7) within pre-specified limits in the course of the treatment extending over many heart cycles (e.g., [0051]-[0053], [0059] & [0077]), wherein the plurality of said parameters are simultaneously varied [e.g., 0049]. NOTE, the examiner has chosen amplitude and frequency, therefore, the other dependent claims that do not first set forth which parameter the claimed method or device has (such as duration) have been met.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 16 & 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over May (US 2003/0176901).

May discloses the claimed invention having an apparatus and a method for applying electrical stimulation by way of varying the stimulation's amplitude except wherein said variation of amplitude is in a range from  $\pm 10$  V from a nominal value selected in the range from typically 10 to 50 V. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the apparatus and method as taught by May with utilizing a variation of the amplitude in the range from  $\pm 10$  V from a nominal value selected in the range from typically 10 to 50 V since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art [In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233].

7. Claims 29 & 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over May (US 2003/0176901).

May discloses the claimed invention having an apparatus and a method for applying electrical stimulation by utilizing a microprocessor having pre-specified limits in the course of an extended treatment except wherein said treatment lasts for more than 15 minutes. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to extend said treatment for more than 15 minutes, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 15-32 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection as necessitated by amendments.
2. Applicant's arguments, filed 27 July 2009, with respect to the §101 claim rejections have been fully considered and are persuasive and have been withdrawn.
